Attended Funeral Nov 18 /33

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Parrott were in Tichborne on Sunday attending the funeral of the latter's grandmother, the late Mrs. Sarah Hampton. The deceased, who was 88 years of age, had been in ill health for some time and passed away on Thursday evening. Her husband predeceased her some years ago. Mrs. Hampton, who had been a life long resident of Tichborne, was a much esteemed resident. She leaves to mourn one son, Thomas Hampton, who resides in the west, and four daughters, Mrs. M. S. Hill of Hawley, Mrs. Fitzpatrick of Watertown, Mrs. Howarth of Florida and Mrs. Button of Miami, Florida. The deceased in the years that are gone visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Parrott and also at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hill, who resided near Odessa until a short time ago.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18—(AP)
— Recognition of Soviet Russia by the United States was announced yesterday by President Roosevelt.

Sitting at his desk in his office shortly after 4 p.m., Mr.
Roosevelt smilingly said that the sixteen-year breach between the two countries was actually ended at ten minutes before midnight last night.

At that time he and Maxim Litvinoff, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, came to an agreement on the points that have been in negotiation since Litvinoff arrived on November
7. The two were in the White House at the time.

MRS. WILMUR BAUDER

WILTON — The death of Mrs. W. Bauder which occurred at her home in Kingston on Monday, was learned with sincere regret by her friends in the Wilton district. She was formerly Helen Kathleen Parrott, elder daughter of Mrs. Ida Parrott and the late Milton Parrott of Wilton.

She had been in ill-health for some time and had borne her illness bravely and cheerfully. Besides Mr. Bauder and her mother she leaves a sister, Arlene at home and three brothers, Edward of New Brunswick and Cecil and Franklin of Wilton. The remains rested at her home in Kingston until Wednesday and were brought to the home of her mother, the funeral taking place on Thursday afternoon from the Wilton United Church.

PARRETT-JONES

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Kingston on Wednesday, Dec. 22nd, when Kathleen Lillian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Jones, became the bride of Morley Allan Parrett, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Parrett of Kingston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. J. Fiddes and the couple were unattended. The bride looked charming in a frock of Wallace blue velvet with matching velvet turban and silver slippers. After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served at the home of the bride's parents with only immediate relatives being present. Later Mr. and Mrs. Parrett left on a honeymoon to New York and New Jersey. On their return they will reside in Kingston.

Deaths and Funerals

EMMA JANE AMEY

Funeral of Emma Jane Amey, 95, widow of the late Thomas Ashton Amey, who died at Hamilton at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. R. Godard, was held from the Jones funeral home, Odessa. Rev. R. Bonsteel, minister of Odessa United Church conducted the service. Interment was made in the family plot at Union Cemetery. Herschel Snider, sang a favorite song of the deceased, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere."

The pall-bearers were Walter Snider, James Clark, Roy Hartman, Joseph Rogers, Herchel Snider and Edgar Thompson.

Deceased was a daughter of the late John Parrott and Hannah Hoyle. She resided on the Ernestown homestead with her son, John S. Amey until the last few years which she spent with her adopted daughter in Hamilton.

She was a member of long standing of the Odessa United Church and took an active part in its organizations. Her family were United Empire Loyalist descendants, settling first at Parrott's Bay and later took up land in the Fourth Concession, Ernestown Township. Col. James Parrott set aside land for the church which he moved from Parrott's Bay and rebuilt it in 1792 and it is now known as the Fourth Line United Church.

Deceased is survived by one son, John S. Amey, and three grandchildren, Charles, Marie and Ivan, three great grandchildren, Anne Marie, Helen Elizabeth Kelsey and Paul David Murray.

MIND OVER GO

(Cornwall Standard-F

A biology professor in Marshall, Mo., propounds the unique theory that you don't have to see a golf ball flying through the air to know where it lights. "You can feel the shot," he says. "A good shot feels good; a flubbed shot feels poor, and you instinctively feel where the ball is going to rest."

To establish his point, the professor played nine holes of golf in the dark, while his wife held the flashlight. He scored a 43, just a little over his normal daytime score, and he lost only two balls.

If this trend of thought could become established, it would be a great thing for those golf courses which have more members than room. There wouldn't be any need to sneak out of the office early in order to get in nine or 18 holes before dark. These

FRANKLIN M. PARROTT

ODESSA — The funeral of the late Franklin Murton Parrott was held from the Jones funeral home for service at the United Church conducted by Mr. Stanley Sears.

Members of Lady Nelson Rebekah Lodge and the Odd Fellows of which he was a member, attended in a body and the church was filled to capacity.

Mr. Parrott was a son of the late Milton Parrott and Ida Hicks. He was born near Wilton.

Surviving are his wife, formerly Ida McPherson, and daughter, Valerie; two brothers, Edward of Moncton, NB, Cecil of Kingston, and a sister, Miss Arlene Parrott, Ottawa. He was predeceased by two sisters several years ago.

He farmed for some time in the Wilton district and nine years ago bought a farm on the second concession of Ernestown. The choir number was "Some Glad Day He Will Come" with Mrs. Stanley Sproule and Herchel Snider singing the duet and the hymn used was "Jesus Saviour Pilot Me."

The Odd Fellows service was also held in the church.

Mr. Parrott was a member of the United Church.

The flower-bearers were Bruce Snider, Maxwell Clyde, Gerald Babcock, Arthur Thompson, Howard Fairbanks and Murray Clark.

Burial took place in the Wilton Cemetery and the pall-bearers were Harold Babcock, Bruce Burt, Cromwell Campsall, Clifford McLaughlin, Milford Love and Erwell Huff. Tues Jan 22 1952

E. S. Parrott Found Dead At Odessa

Heart Trouble Cause of Death

ODESSA — (Special) — Elgin S. Parrott, 70, was found dead here Saturday at the entrance of the Royal Bank. Coroner Dr. D. Hall said he died of a heart attack. Mon Dec 24 1941

The man's body was found near the family entrance to the bank building about 4:30 pm by two paper carriers, Donald Huff and Charles Hodge.

The only son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parrott, he was born on a farm where he always resided about three miles west of here on Highway No. 2. He was a past master of Prince Arthur Lodge, AF and AM No. 228, serving for many years as secretary.

He was also a past district deputy grand master of the Frontenac Masonic district. A member of the United Church, he served for some time as a church steward.

The body will rest at the Jones funeral home for service Wednesday at the United Church at 2 pm. A Masonic service will follow.

Surviving are his wife the former Grace Danford, and two children, Ruth and Edward.

Mr. Shepard,
Dear Sir:

It would be indeed
difficult to express my appreciation of your promise to help me ferret out a problem I have been working on for several years.
I have been wishing to interest some one in your locality to find the early Parrott records.
The one of whom you wrote was the uncle of my father who married Elizabeth Swider, daughter of Jeremiah and Mary (Miller) Swider.
She was born July 28, 1795

and married James Parrott

in 1747. One of the old members of the family (now deceased) wrote me once that the marriage was consummated in Bath. I think they were Methodists. I wish the full date and place of birth and marriage.

Now I very, very, much wish the place of birth of the Col. James Parrott of whom you wrote. He was born in 1745-7 - and Mr. J. James your former Secretary of Agriculture wrote me that it was in "Boston Province" - That was a clue but I have so far labored in vain to find the definite city - which I need for a literary and historic purpose - I am sorry to say that the Canada descendants of Col. James's brother John's, have, altho' apparently pleased that some one was interested, been themselves insufficiently desirous of assisting -

There are documents, there are bibles and several Canadian books, which pertain to his doings - and if thoroughly consulted by an expert would no doubt lead to what I wish. His birth place and parentage

John Younglove Esq appeared before this Board, and brought with him the Names of the Persons Elected to serve in General Committee for the District of Cambridge at the same time representing it to be the sense of a Handwritten text, likely a letter or document, written in cursive script. The text is faint and mostly illegible due to fading and bleed-through from the reverse side. The document appears to be a single page of paper, possibly a letter or a page from a book, with a dark border around the edges. The handwriting is in a cursive style, typical of the 18th or 19th century. The text is arranged in several paragraphs, with some lines being more prominent than others. The overall appearance is that of an old, weathered document.

great part of that District, that a New Election be held and that the General Committee do appoint a Time for that purpose and discriminate such Persons as are deemed Eligible to Vote — This Committee taking the above into their Consideration are of Opinion that a New Election be held and that the Committee will appoint a Day for that purpose, in respect to the Discrimination of such as are Eligible to Vote this Committee would rather submit it to the Inhabitants of that District at the same time they are of Opinion that many Persons went over to the Enemy and took an Active part in their favour some thro' Fear, some thro' the persuasions of artful and designing Persons, others thro' the Allurements of Gain and the prospect of seeing their oppressed Country in the Hands of its base Invaders. However infamous the Conduct of these Persons, have been, be their Motives what they may — It is a Conduct that will for ever be held in detestation by every Man that is fired with the Love of Liberty or attachment to his injured Country, notwithstanding the most Vigorous efforts of those Wretches many of whom have plunged their Daggers in the Breasts of many of their Bosom Friends, we would remind our Countrymen, that the God of Justice has declared Victory in our favour, & put many of our Enemies, in our power. The brave are ever Humane,

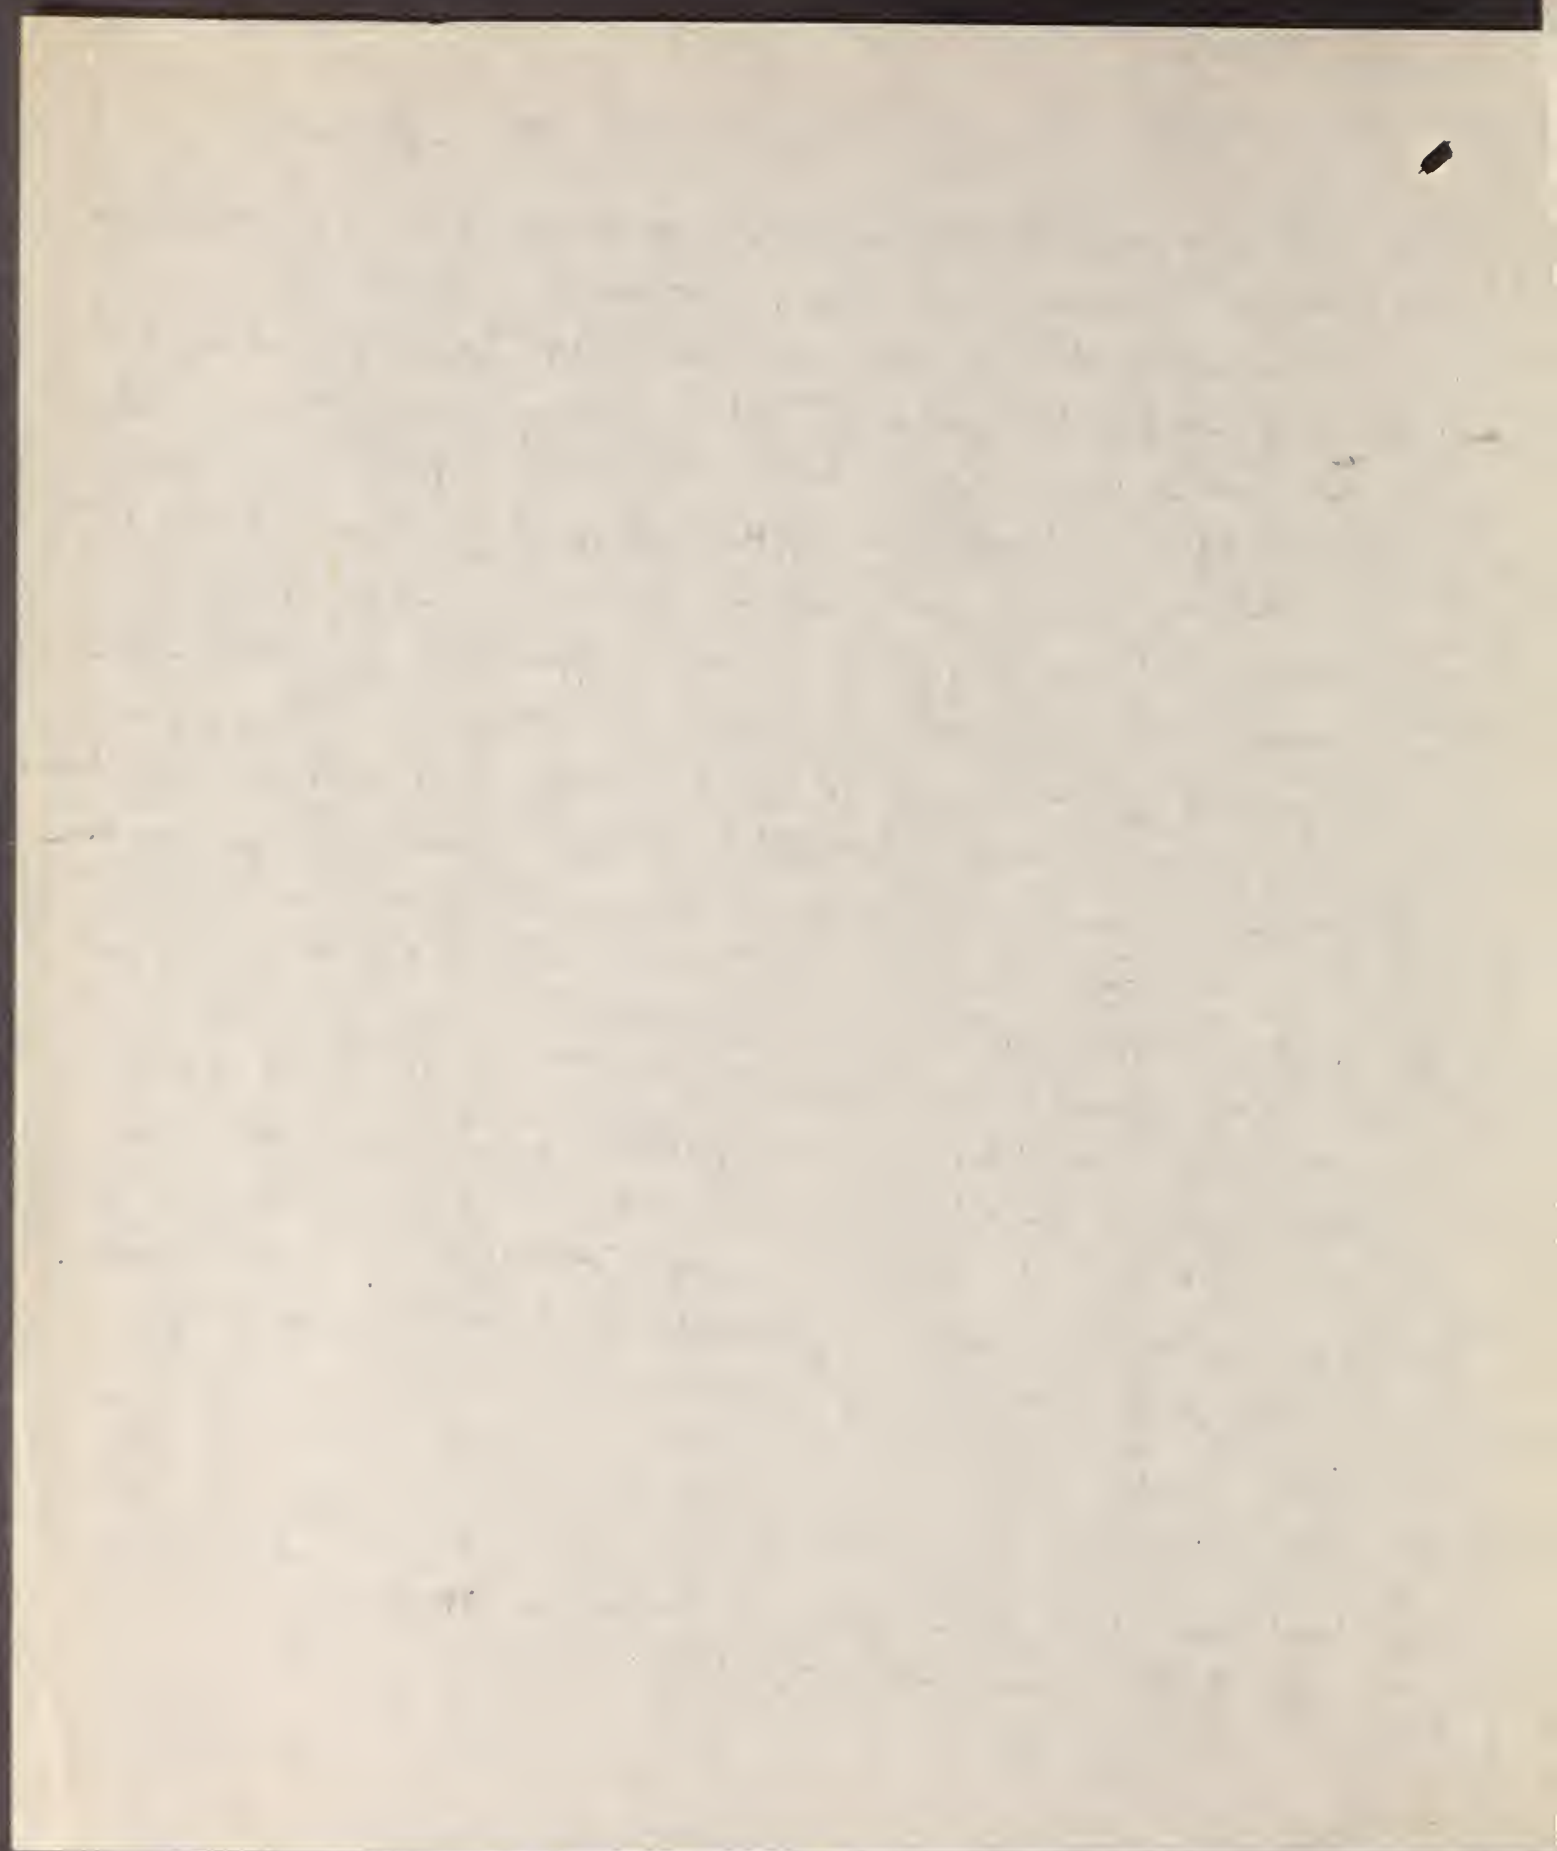

1. The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the car was a warm, sticky breeze that seemed to wrap around me.
The sun was high in the sky, and the air was thick with the scent of blooming flowers. I took a deep breath, feeling the humidity settle in my lungs. The world around me was a blur of colors and sounds, a chaotic yet beautiful scene.
I walked slowly, my feet sinking into the soft, damp ground.
The ground was covered in a thick layer of moss and small plants, their leaves glistening with dew. The air was so still, yet I could hear the faint rustle of leaves and the distant chirp of birds. It was a strange, almost magical feeling.
I looked up at the sky, where a few wispy clouds were drifting lazily. The sun was a bright, glowing orb, its rays penetrating the thick atmosphere. I felt a sense of awe and wonder, as if I had stumbled upon a hidden world.
The ground beneath my feet was uneven, with small mounds and depressions. I noticed a few small insects, their bodies glistening with moisture. They were so tiny, yet so full of life.
I felt a sense of connection to the world around me, a sense of being part of something much larger than myself. The humidity was not just a physical sensation; it was a feeling, a mood. It was a reminder of the power of nature, of the beauty of the world we live in. I took another deep breath, feeling the warmth and moisture fill my chest. It was a sensation I would never forget.

Let us now Convince our Enemies, in our power, the brave are ever Humane, Let us now Convince our Enemies that we seek not to spill their Blood and that we fight only for that Liberty which God hath conferred upon us, Let us also now Exercise Mercy (one of the attributes of Heaven) as far as is Consistent with the Good and Safety of our Country and by Acts of Clemency forgive our Offending Brethren provided they show signs of Contrition for their past Offences and promise of Amendment in future, those who have taken the Oath of Allegiance and perjured themselves, or such as have seduced others from their Allegiance to the State we are of Opinion ought

The Parrot Papers.

Among the early documents is "An Estimate of losses sustained by James Parrot, Loyalist, late from the province of New York, County of Albany & District of Cambridge, and at present in Canada," dated 12 November, 1783. It itemized losses amounting to £765-12-6. James Parrot joined Jessup's Rangers at Crown Point in 1776, served throughout the war as lieutenant, and as a U.E.L., with his brother John, received Crown Grants in Ernestown & Fredericksburgh. A land speculator, successful farmer and prominent Methodist, James Parrot also served as Lieut-Colonel in the local militia during the war of 1812.

Among his papers is a hand-written document by Joseph Jewell, Presiding Elder of the Methodist Societies in Upper Canada, dated 26 March, 1802, appointing "James Parrot, Esq., Robert Clark, Esq., Jacob Miller, John Lake, George Miller, James Lake and Matthew Clarke to be Trustees to the Methodist Meeting House now standing on Lot No. 27, first Concession in Ernestown, and I do hereby authorize them to perform all the duties of faithful Trustees, and I do hereby authorize them to perform all the duties of faithful Trustees, either to forward subscriptions and raise money and finish the House fit for use, or sell it and pay the debts, according to the Methodist Discipline.

This was the second Methodist church to be built in Upper Canada, having been begun shortly after the Hazy Bay church in 1792. After being used for several years in an unfinished state, it was taken down, moved to the 4th Concession and rebuilt near Odessa.

Col. Parrot lived to be an octogenarian; he died on his farm on the 4th Concession, May 22, 1821. The Kingston Chronicle in a brief obituary, paid tribute to him as "a man of sober and industrious habits & exceedingly punctual and correct in all his dealings." He left an estate of several thousand pounds and "a handsome property in lands.

His brother John, who died about 1830, had settled in Fredericksburgh organized and taught the first school in the Township, and brought up a family of three boys, John, James, and Jonathan. Among his papers are three articles of agreement (1800-1803) which he drew up as schoolmaster to be signed by the subscribing parents. It quaintly sets forth his undertaking to teach a Regular School, viz Reading, Writing and Arithmetic, according to the best of his abilities, commencing the twenty-eighth day of January (1800) in the Township of Fredericksburgh ... the said John Parrot doing his best endeavours (sic) to teach Education and Morals to such Youth as is intrusted (sic) to his care ... " He is to be paid £ 25 per annum half in currency half in good and merchantable Wheat. The subscribers are to provide "decent and convenient Boarding Washing and Mending and likewise a good Schoolhouse and a sufficiency of fire wood cut fit for the fire"

Mrs. Parrot evidently made a name for herself in this pioneer community as a skillful housewife. During the War of 1812 when butter was in short supply in Kingston, Peter Smith, one of the town's leading merchants wrote the following note to James Parrot:

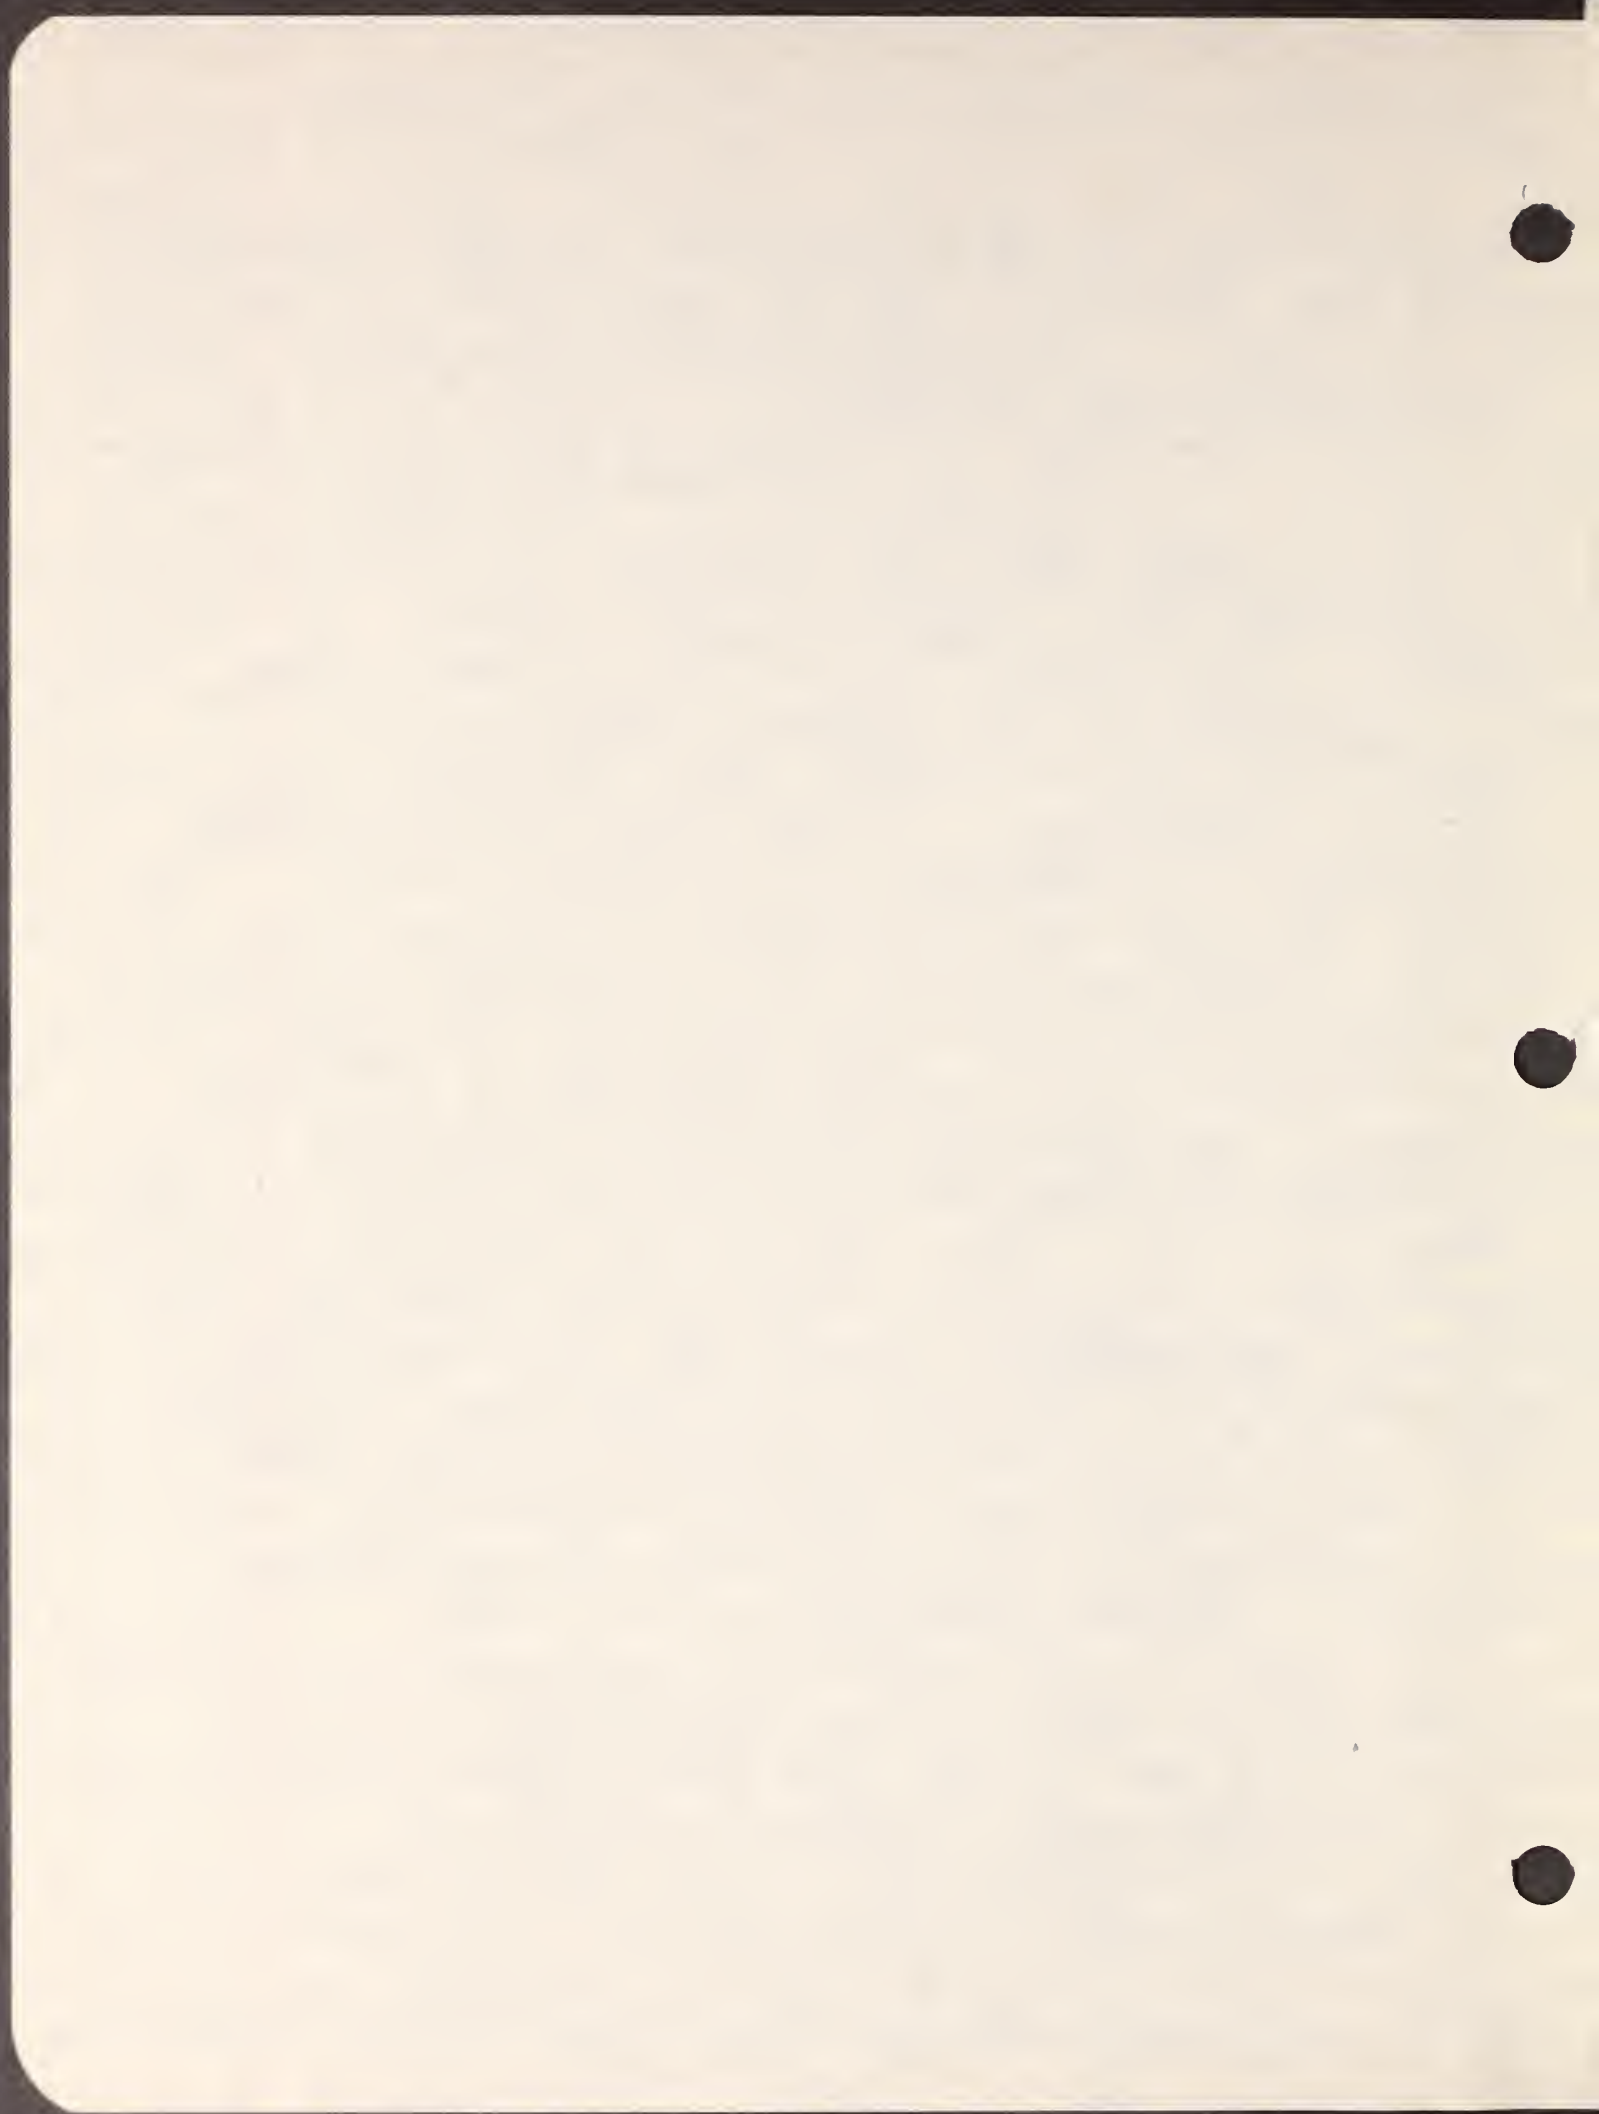

Kingston 23 Sept 1813

Mr James Parrot

Sir I am in want of some Butter for my ^{own} ~~them~~ use I wish you or some of your friends would send me down as soon as Convenient two or three hibs of Good Butter your Brother John's wife used to make it very good If you have none your self, I wish you would apply to them for me and oblige yours as to

A BRAVE U. E. L. PIONEER.

COL. JAMES PARROTT, ONCE OF ERNESTTOWN.

Lieutenant in the King's Royal Rangers—served his Country well—He was a Prominent Methodist and the First Quarterly meeting in Upper Canada was held in his barn—about 1792's last Brother.

W. Casey in Napanee Herald.
We are indebted to Mrs. Betha Belknap, of John street, for some interesting old papers of Col. James Parrott, one of the stirring men on the British side during the American revolution, and one of the prominent U. E. L. pioneers of "Second Town" in the early settlement of this province. He was a lieutenant in the King's loyal rangers during the revolution and appears to have served his flag and country most loyally. After the close of that memorable war he had to leave his native land and had all his property confiscated for the sole crime of having continued loyal to the British cause. He was granted a fine lot of 200 acres of land on the Bay shore in the front of Ernesttown, by what is still known as "Parrott's Bay" midway between Millhaven and Collins Bay, and about 2,000 acres, located in Ontario, and some other sections of the province. He first settled on his twenty-six, and among his neighbors were Jacob Miller, John Maber, Joshua Booth, Capt. William Johnson, William Fairbaird, Robert Clarke and some others who had occupied prominent positions during the war, and who became heads of well-known families in this country to the present day. He was also granted a pension from the British government, of about $200 a year in cash, which was a fine thing in that day. He became a prominent and wealthy citizen and continued to be a man of much influence to the end of his useful days. He also took an active and prominent part as a militia officer during the stirring times of the war of 1812-15 and was colonel of his regiment.

Col. Parrott was a prominent man in the Methodist church during its infancy and early struggles in this province. According to Webster's history he was one of the few early pioneer worshippers at Robert Perry's house, near Hawley, in 1788, when James McCarthy was arrested for the crime (?) of attempting to preach to the early settlers, before any missionary was sent. With Robert Perry and Col. Simmons, two other noted pioneers, he became a bondsman for that early martyr's appearance before the sheriff in Kingston the next day. It is needless here to say that McCarthy was banished from the country as a vagabond for that offence and whatever became of him or happened to him after, his family never knew. His house, too, was the home of the early Methodist preachers.

The Rev. Elijah Woolsey, who was sent to Upper Canada along with Rev. Darius Dunham, in 1795, has left a graphic account of their journey from Albany to Col. Parrott's home, which gives a vivid idea of the hardships and privations such men had to endure a century ago. They were nineteen days making that trip which can now be easily accomplished in a less number of hours. There was no way in travelling but by a small open boat along the Mohawk river and down the Oswego to Lake Ontario and then across it in their frail craft. During all that trip they ~~one night and then on a rough stone floor.~~ Food was so scarce that during the last days of their journey they had to confine themselves to one biscuit a day each. Most of the time they were wet as well as hungry. He wrote, "We put up at night at last at the house of our kind friend Col. Parrott. He and his wife were members of our church and received us kindly. Mrs. Parrott hastened to make supper ready, but it was as much as I could do to keep my hands from the bread till it was ready." And they found a soft bed so strange to them they could hardly sleep that night.

Mr. Playter, in his interesting history of Methodism in Canada, states that the first Methodist quarterly meeting held in upper Canada was in Col. James Parrott's barn on the 15th of September, 1792. "There was no church in existence then and no other house of any kind available capable of accommodating many people. Rev. Darius Dunham, the first ordained Methodist missionary, had just arrived and word was sent out to the scattered members in the six townships of the county and it was a "high day" to them all. Playter concludes the account by saying, "The new missionary stands before the gazing congregation, he opens his commission to preach the gospel unto all people. It was a memorable day to the people of the Bay of Quinte, and this was the first Methodist quarterly meeting held in Canada."

Col. Parrott was also instrumental in erecting one of the first Methodist churches in this province. In the winter of 1792 arrangements were made both at Adolphustown and Parrott's Bay for the erection of houses of worship. It is said both frames were put up the next spring, both of the same style and dimensions. Col. Parrott then arranged to sell his lot to Adam Sturges and ~~located in the fourth concession of the same township, where he lived and died.~~ The church frame was taken down and moved also, where it was re-erected the following year. There it stood as a well-known place of worship for a couple of generations until it was taken away to give place to the present neat brick church in the "Parrott neighborhood" on the Kingston road, a few miles west of Odessa. In that old church yard is the last resting place of Col. James Parrott and his faithful wife, of his brother John Parrott and his wife and several of their children and their children's children.

Somewhat singular to say that during the war of the American revolution the Parrott family had a similar experience to that of many others in that day. The two brothers bound themselves in the ranks of the hostile armies. James was a fury and joined the King's loyal rangers John was a whig and fought in the ranks of the continentalists. Commendation was so cut off that the brothers entirely lost trace of each other for years. Ten or twelve years later Mr. Mettlin, a pioneer near Collins Bay, visited the eastern states and on his return told Col. Parrott of a resident in New Hampshire of his family name and he was convinced it was his long lost brother. "There was no royal road of travelling yet, and though he had teams and vehicles of his own he found it easier to shoulder his musket and provide himself with sufficient money and tramp on foot the long journey to New Hampshire, a journey of weeks of hardship then. He was rewarded in again meeting his brother and the upshot of it all was that both returned to Ernesttown, where both afterwards lived and died in the same neighborhood, and both with their names were buried in the same "God's acre." Both became prosperous men. Col. Parrott had no children and made his brother John's family heirs to his broad acres and ample estate. Our well-known townsman, J. M. Parrott, is a grandson of John Parrott and now owns the farm on which he lived and died. It is now occupied by A. M. Parrott, one of the fourth generation of occupants in a direct line. Mrs. Belknap is also a grand-daughter, and among the other descendants here are councillor S. R. Miller, Mrs. James Daly and Mrs. E. Storr. Throughout the county the descendants can be numbered by scores, if not by hundreds, among our well known and much respected citizens.

Albany Committee of Correspondence.

General Association

A General Association agreed to and subscribed by the Members of the several Committees of the City and County of Albany (shortly after 17 Feby., 1776)

Resolved that the salvation of the Rights and Liberties of America depends under God on the firm Union of its Inhabitants, in a Vigorous prosecution of the Measures necessary for its Safety; and convinced of the necessity of preventing the Anarchy and Confusion, which attend a Dissolution of the Powers of Government

We the Freeman, Freeholders and Inhabitants of the City and County of Albany being greatly alarmed at the avowed Design of the Ministry, to raise a Revenue in America; and shocked by the bloody scene now acting in the Massachusetts Bay do in the most Solemn Manner resolve never to become Slaves; and do associate under all the Ties of Religion, Honour, and Love to our Country, to adopt and endeavour to carry into Execution whatever Measures may be recommended by the Continental Congress, or resolved upon by our Provincial Convention for the purpose of preserving our Constitution, and opposing the Execution of the several Arbitrary and oppressive Acts of the British Parliament untill a Reconciliation between Great Britain and America on Constitutional Principles (which we most ardently desire) can be obtained; And that we will in all Things follow the Advice of our General Committee respecting the purposes aforesaid, the preservation of Peace and good Order and the safety of Individuals and private Property.

ADDITIONS TO THE BLISS CARMAN COLLECTION

THIS BUDDHA BROUGHT HOME FROM ABROAD WAS PRESENTED TO BLISS CARMAN
BY MARY PERRY KING.
IT STOOD FOR YEARS IN THE EAST ROOM
AT SUNSHINE HOUSE
CARMAN COMPOSED THREE SONNETS TO
THE BUDDHA
THAT APPEARED IN "SANCTUARY"
HIS LAST BOOK

Dr. Lorne Pierce has recently obtained for the Edith and Lorne Pierce Room the soapstone Buddha (12½" high by 9" at the base) given to Bliss Carman by his friend and collaborator Mrs. Mary Perry King, as illustrated above.

Over one hundred new items have been added to the Carman collection. These include twenty-nine personal letters written by Carman to his friend Alfred E. Drake, fourteen to Mrs. Drake and four to them jointly. The earliest is dated 26 December 1907, the last 27 December, 1925. The correspondence is chiefly interesting as a record of friendship, marked by anniversary messages on birthdays and at Christmas. In the earlier letters Carman discusses his literary preoccupations at the time and answers Drake's queries about first editions of his publications. In addition there are holograph copies of five poems: "In Gold Lacquer", "The Lost Rower", "The Spirit of New England" (two copies, a first draft with numerous corrections, and a second inscribed "First completed copy. To A.E.D. 18 June 1908"), "Theodore and Bill" (unpublished) and "Two Songs of Pierrot". There are three autographed typescripts: "Marjory Darrow", "A Greek Model" and "Daughters of Dawn: A Lyrical Pageant in Twelve Scenes. By Bliss Carman and Mary Perry King". Other addenda include a series of press cuts, studio photographs and snapshots of Carman and some of his friends (27 items) and a score of miscellaneous pieces — broadsides, pamphlets, greeting cards, off-prints and tear-sheets.

DOCUMENTS FOR EVERYMAN

The government documents collection is considered by many social scientists as their counterpart to the physical scientists' laboratories. It is from the multitudinous publications of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics and the equivalent agencies in the governments of the provinces, other countries, and international bodies that the economists extract the figures from which they construct their series, graphs, and charts. The political scientists consult the reports of the debates of the various legislatures, their parliamentary papers, and the proceedings of the various committees and commissions with which modern governments proliferate. Students in the fields of commerce and labour relations refer to the statutes and orders-in-council by which governments attempt to regulate activities in commerce and industry. While the foregoing specialists are primarily interested in the latest material in their field, the documents do not lose their value when they are superseded by later publications. After all this material has aged and, apparently, matured sufficiently in the stacks it falls within the purview of the historian.

Although the documents collection at Queen's has been arranged to cater to the needs of these disciplines the output of government printing houses is by no means confined to the topics indicated above. If anyone is still not convinced of the interest which a modern paternalistic government displays in the welfare of its citizens he need only consult the annual catalogue of the Queen's Printer, Ottawa, or its British or American counterpart. If he wishes advice on how to raise a child (Up the Years from One to Six), sports (How to Play Better Hockey), or culinary art (The Way to Cook Fish) he will find what he is looking for attractively presented in a multitude of such books and pamphlets. If he is undecided on a choice of career he may consult the Canadian occupations monographs, published by the Department of Labour, which set forth the advantages and disadvantages of Careers in Construction, Draughtsman, The Printing Trades, and Painter, Construction and Maintenance. In the latter booklet he will be warned that "portrait, landscape, genre or other artists" are not included in its scope. If he wishes to start his own business the reader can consult the Small Business Manual published by the Department of Trade and Commerce. Its author discusses the personal aspect, the importance of location, the keeping of accounts, the sources and uses of credit, and then closes on a pessimistic note with a chapter on bankruptcy and insolvency.

Something for practically every taste comes off the presses of the government publishing houses and, as the Douglas Library is a depository library for Dominion Government publications, most of the titles produced by the Queen's Printer, Ottawa (now at Hull), find their way to Queen's. Much of the material of a technical nature is placed in the appropriate departmental library. Thus many of the publications of the Department of National Health and Welfare go to the medical library and those of the Department of Mines and Technical Surveys to Nicol Hall library (Mining and Metallurgy). Certain titles which are likely to have a fairly wide popular appeal, such as the war histories and Diamond Jenness' recent The Corn Goddess and other tales from Indian Canada, are placed in the main collection of the library. Nevertheless the government documents collection continues to add more than eight thousand new items to its holdings annually, the products of the government printers of the federal and provincial governments of Canada, of Great Britain and some other Commonwealth countries, the United States, the United Nations, and other international bodies.

Material sent out by political parties and by the information services of other countries is also retained in the documents division. The recent issues are displayed in the documents reading room and older numbers are filed away, though no attempt has been made to catalogue this material. If you wish to learn about the latest steps being taken in the move to canonize Christopher Colombus or if you wish to be completely confused on the Kashmir issue you can read all about it in the Government Documents Room.

DOUGLAS LIBRARY NOTES ..

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY  KINGSTON, ONTARIO

Vol. 6, No. 2

A Supplement to the Queen's Review

May 1957

THE PARROT PAPERS

The Douglas Library has acquired an interesting group of papers relating to the United Empire Loyalist family of Parrot, early settlers in the Bay of Quinte district. The papers comprise: (a) Some forty legal documents 1769-1881 — Crown grants of land, deeds of conveyance, land leases, bonds, articles of agreement, affidavits etc. relating to the Parrot family, their neighbours and relatives. Names and signatures on these documents include some of the most prominent administrators and early settlers of Upper Canada. (b) Correspondence: ten letters to James Parrot, 1798-1816, mostly dealing with business matter; a letter to John Parrot Jr. in 1830, and an interesting letter dated Washington, California, 18 June 1856, from Miles Simmons to his cousin, George Parrot, dealing with conditions of work in the California gold fields. (c) Business papers: James Parrot — statements of account etc., 1791-1821, 58 pieces; John Parrot Sr., 8 items; John Parrot Jr. 16 items. (d) Miscellaneous items, including a "Sunday School Library Record, . . . John Parrot Secretary and Librarian", 1853-56, and four early but undated receipts: "A Substitute for apple pie", "A receipt for making honey", "A cure for scrofula" and "Cure for bite of mad dog".

Among the early documents is "An estimate of losses sustained by James Parrot, Loyalist, late from the province of New York, County of Albany and District of Cambridge, and at present in Canada". Dated 12 November 1783, it itemizes losses amounting to £765.12.6. James Parrot joined Jessup's Rangers at Crown Point in 1776, served throughout the war as Lieutenant, and as a U.E.L., with his brother John, received Crown grants in Ernestown and Fredericksburgh. A land speculator, successful farmer and prominent Methodist, James Parrot also served as Lieutenant Colonel in the local militia during the War of 1812. Among his papers is a hand-written document by Joseph Jewell, Presiding Elder of the Methodist Societies in Upper Canada, dated 26 March 1802, appointing "James Parrot, Esq^r, Robert Clerk, Esq^r, Jacob Miller, John Lake, George Miller, James Lake and Matthew Clerk to be Trustees to the Methodist Meeting House now standing on Lot No. 27, first Concession in Ernestown; and I do hereby authorize them to perform all the duties of faithful Trustees, either to forward subscriptions and raise money and finish the House fit for use, or sell it and pay the debts, according to the Methodist Discipline". This was the second Methodist church to be built in Upper Canada, having been begun shortly after the Hay Bay church in 1792. After being used for several years in an unfinished state, it was taken down, moved to the 4th Concession and rebuilt near Odessa.

Col. Parrot lived to be an octogenarian; he died on his farm on the 4th Concession, May 22, 1821. The Kingston Chronicle in a brief obituary paid tribute to him as "a man of sober and industrious habits and exceedingly punctual and correct in all his dealings". He left an estate of several thousand pounds and "a handsome property in lands".

His brother John, who died about 1830, had settled in Fredericksburgh, organized and taught the first school in the township, and brought up a family of three boys, John, James, and Jonathan. Among his papers are three articles of agreement (1800-1803) which he drew up as schoolmaster to be signed by the subscribing parents. It quaintly sets forth his undertaking "to teach a Regular School, Viz. Reading, Writing, and Arithmetic, according to the best of his abilities, commencing the Twenty-eighth day of January [1800] in the township of Fredericksburgh . . . the said Jno. Parrot doing his best endeavors (sic) to teach Education and Morals to such Youth as is intrusted (sic) to his care . . ." He is to be paid £25 per annum, half in currency, half in "good and merchantable Wheat". The subscribers are to provide "decent and convenient Boarding Washing and Mending and likewise a good Schoolhouse and a sufficiency of fire wood cut fit for the fire."

Mrs. Parrot evidently made a name for herself in this pioneer community as a skillful housewife. During the War of 1812, when butter was in short supply in Kingston, Peter Smith, one of the town's leading merchants, wrote the following note to James Parrot:

Kingston 23 Sept^r 1813

Mr. James Perrot

Sir I am in want of some Butter for my own use I wish you or some of your friends would send me down as soon as Convenient two or three tubs of Good Butter your Brother John's wife used to make it very Good if you have none your Self I wish you would apply to them for me and oblige yours &c &c

Peter Smith

Three months after the war had been declared, the following militia order was issued to Lieut. Col. Parrot:

1. The first part of the paper is devoted to a general discussion of the problem of the origin of life. It is shown that the problem is one of the most important and interesting in the history of science, and that it has been the subject of much speculation and controversy.

2. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various theories which have been advanced to explain the origin of life. These theories are: (a) the theory of spontaneous generation, (b) the theory of biogenesis, (c) the theory of abiogenesis, and (d) the theory of panspermia.

3. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the evidence which has been adduced in support of each of these theories. It is shown that the evidence in support of spontaneous generation is very weak, and that the evidence in support of biogenesis is very strong.

4. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various experiments which have been conducted to test the various theories. It is shown that the experiments conducted by Pasteur and others have shown that spontaneous generation does not occur, and that biogenesis is the only theory which is supported by the evidence.

5. The fifth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various problems which are still connected with the origin of life. These problems are: (a) the problem of the origin of the first living organisms, (b) the problem of the origin of the various classes of organisms, and (c) the problem of the origin of the various organs and systems of the body.

6. The sixth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various methods which have been used to study the origin of life. These methods are: (a) the method of observation, (b) the method of experiment, and (c) the method of reasoning.

7. The seventh part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various conclusions which have been reached by the various scientists who have studied the origin of life. It is shown that the conclusions reached by the various scientists are in general in agreement, and that biogenesis is the only theory which is supported by the evidence.

8. The eighth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various applications of the study of the origin of life. It is shown that the study of the origin of life has many important applications, and that it is one of the most interesting and important branches of science.

9. The ninth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various questions which are still connected with the origin of life. These questions are: (a) the question of the origin of the first living organisms, (b) the question of the origin of the various classes of organisms, and (c) the question of the origin of the various organs and systems of the body.

10. The tenth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various methods which have been used to study the origin of life. These methods are: (a) the method of observation, (b) the method of experiment, and (c) the method of reasoning.

John Younglove complained that one Peter Miller of Cambridge District had declared that he had taken an oath which would oblige him to join the Kings Troops when called upon by any of his Officers, and to kill his best friends if they were in opposition to him.

Thereupon Resolved That the Committee of Cambridge apprehend the said Peter Miller, and disarm and bind him to his future good behaviour, and that they make Report of their proceedings to this Board with all Convenient Speed.

My dear Mr. [Name]

I have just received your letter of the 10th inst. and am glad to hear from you. I am well and hope this finds you the same. I have been thinking much of late about the future of our country and the state of our Union. It seems to me that we are passing through a critical period in our history and that the result will determine whether we are to remain a united people or become a collection of warring states. I believe that the only way to preserve our Union is by maintaining the principles of liberty and justice for all, and by supporting the Government in its efforts to maintain the integrity of the Union.

I am, Sir, very respectfully,
Your obedient servant,

Phillips, John (1840-1925).

Settling in Detroit, Michigan, as a young man, he apprenticed as a cabinet maker and, turning his talents to commercial show cases, he eventually, as John Phillips & Company, Limited, and using the trade mark "Silent Salesman," owned and managed at Fort and Beaubien Streets one of the largest factories in the mid-west specializing in quality store fixtures. He was one of the pioneer suburban residents of Detroit's famous Grosse Pointe Lake Shore, where in 1881 he acquired (for $5,000.00) a twenty-one acre operating farm fronting on the lake at what is now in the six-hundred area of Lake Shore Drive in Grosse Pointe Shores. Here in the nineties overlooking the lake he constructed a substantial residence which he occupied until his death.

John Parrott (1745-1830).

"He was a sea captain; and served in the Revolution;
resided in Beverly, Massachusetts, till about 1780, when he moved somewhere about 40 to 60 miles from Boston, Mass.,
and finally settled near Odessa, Canada, with his brother James, who served on the British side in the Revolution." From Robbins' "Treadwell Genealogy (1906)."

The inscription on the Parrott family tombstone in the churchyard cemetery west of Odessa, Ontario, reads:

John Parrott died January 13, 1830, aged 84 years 4 months
Also his wife, Ruth Treadwell died December 4, 1820. Age 70 years 4 months.

Consistent with the Robbins' statement, in the South Essex Registry in Salem, Mass., seven transfers of Beverly real estate are of record in John Parrott's name between 1769 and 1779, the final deed, under date of April 12, 1779, covering his "dwelling house" sold to "John Cabot Beverly Gentleman" for £1750/ in four of these deeds John Parrott is described as a "mariner" and in two his wife Ruth is joined), and in both ^{the} 1790 and 1800 censuses of Heads of Families living in New Boston (Hillsboro County), New Hampshire - 50 miles from Boston - the John Parrott family is listed. It is a matter of family record that the Parrotts moved from New Hampshire to Ontario in the year 1803.

As regards service in the American Revolution, the only contemporaneous record known to exist which can be identified with his name relates to duty in 1777 as naval crewman on the Massachusetts Privateer, or State Ship, 'Due de Charles,' on a voyage to Nantes, France, via Charleston, South Carolina. John Parrott's service is listed from 25 January, 1777 to 10 June, 1777, under Alexander Wilson, as Master. (See Massachusetts Soldiers and Sailors of the Revolutionary War (1903), Vol. II, p. 955; also Vol. II, p. 558).

Jonathan Parrott (1790/1-1881)

In the War of 1812 he served in the Canadian army (1812-1815) as Private in 1st Addington Militia and remained active in the same unit as late as 23 April, 1838, being promoted Ensign in 1822, Lieutenant in 1826 and Captain in 1828. In 1820 one hundred acres of land in Ernestown were allotted to him on account of his war ~~officer~~ service. (From official records, Public Archives of Canada).

Out of a family of 13 children born between 1823 and 1839 contact has been maintained up to the present between the progeny of Marcus (born in 1823), Minerva (born in 1824) and Amanda (author's maternal grandmother). Minerva who married Isaac F. Asselstine, one of the proprietors of the well known Asselstine Woolen Mill, located south of Odessa, Ontario, died in 1928 in Kingston, Ontario, approaching her 104th year, - then a legendary character in the area.

The inscription on the Parrott family tombstone in the churchyard cemetery, west of Odessa, Ontario, reads:

Jonathan Parrott died 18 May, 1881, aged 90 years 3 months also his wife Rachel Lockwood died 2 November, 1849 aged 54 years 1 month.

Collaterals.

James Parrott (1746-1821)

Born in "Boston Province," James Parrott (whose family name is reported historically to have been Perret), at the outbreak of the American Revolution was a farmer living at Cambridge, Albany County, New York, and in 1776 he enlisted for service in the British Army at Crown Point, New York. On August 20, 1777, he was commissioned a Lieutenant in Jessup's Loyal Rangers, serving in General Burgoyne's campaign. On his military record is this notation: "A brave, intelligent man. Very fit for laborious service." In 1784 his name appears in a list of disbanded troops and loyalists settled in Township No. 2, Cataraqui (near Kingston), Ontario. In 1795 he was commissioned Lieutenant-Colonel in the Addington Militia and held this commission through the War of 1812 until resigning in 1815. (From personal file and records with Public Archives of Canada.)

Colonel Parrott was associated with the United Empire Loyalists, such as Richard Cartwright and other Statuarts, who were the leaders in the settlement of the Kingston area. He built the brick Methodist Church on the fourth concession west of Odessa in 1792 and managed its finances (From W. S. Herrington: History of the County of Lennox and Addington (1913), pp. 159 and 164; and newspaper accounts.)

The inscription on the Parrott family tombstone in the churchyard cemetery, west of Odessa, Ontario, reads:

Colonel James Parrott died May 5, 1821, aged 74 years 6 months also his wife Maria Lake died November 10, 1819, aged 70

3 months.

His estate passed to his brother, John Parrott (1745-1830), and his brother's children, -- Colonel James Parrott leaving no issue or other heirs. In the Public Archives of Canada in Ottawa is an interesting commentary on how Colonel Parrott succeeded in persuading his brother and family to settle near him in Canada, causing John to sell and partly give away his property "in Hampshire State where he was then very comfortably fixed."

Parrott Line.

The parentage of the Parrott brothers, John (1745-1830) and James (1746-1821), is unfortunately clouded in obscurity. From the name it is likely that the family was of Welsh origin. According to Holmes (Ancestral Heads of New England Families) the name in its various phonetic renderings is derived from Periadd, Wales, the sweet or delicious river, now the Dee. The old spelling of Perret, as reported in the James Parrott commentary, makes intriguing the possibility of some affinity with the historic Welch family line which spelled the name Perrot. Most illustrious members of this family were Sir John Perrot (1527-1592) of Pembrokehire (a Perrot only in name, as he was an illegitimate son of Henry III) and his son, Sir James Perrot (1571-1637), also illegitimate. It is at least only charitable to assume that no guilt attaches to any Johns or James of succeeding generations.

For an exhaustive study of the English antecedents of the Perrot family see: "Perrot Notes; Some Account of the Various Branches of the Perrot Family," by Edwin L. Barnwell, published in London, 1867 -- wherein the author recognizes the following variations in the spelling of the name: Perot, Perott, Perotte, Parrot, Parrat, Parat and Perrott.

FOWLER Line.

Although proof of parentage has not been established, American Fowlers who are descendants of Philip Fowler, who settled in Ipswich, Mass., in 1634, and of Francis Fowler, who settled in James City County, Va., about 1635, by long tradition claim descent from the old and distinguished English family of this name which dates back to Norman origin and originally had the name Fowelere. Historically, the family was seated in Buckinghamshire and its coat of arms of Herald's College accreditation dates back to the Third Crusade, 1190 A.D., and to the heroic service of a Richard Fowler of Foxley, County of Bucks, under Richard Coeur de Lion.

P. 25 No. 497, Book E
Registry Office, Nanaimo.

To the Registrar of the County of Addington in Midland District:

A Memorial of a will Bearing date the twenty-ninth day of December in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and Twenty James Parrot Late of the Township of Ernesttown in the Incorporated Counties of Lennox and Addington in the Midland District and Province of Upper Canada, Esquire, hath given and bequeathed to his Friend James Hogle, Senior, in charge the East half of Lot Number twenty ~~one~~ and west three fourths of Lot Number twenty one in the Fourth Concession of Said Township of Ernesttown with the profits thereof during his life / he the said James Hogle, his heirs, Executors or administrators having provided for supported and Comfortably Maintained him during his life time and after his death said Lots or parcels of Land, with buildings, improvements and appurtenances thereof belonging to be Confirmed to him the said James Hogle his heirs and assigns for ever; and to his Brother John Parrot hath given and devised the north half of Lot Number 23 in the fourth Concession of the Township of Ernesttown where he now lives, also the east half of Lot Number twenty seven and the whole

The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the general principles of the theory of the structure of the human mind. It is shown that the mind is a complex system of organs, each of which has its own function, and that the mind as a whole is the result of the interaction of these organs. The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the specific functions of the various organs of the mind. It is shown that the mind is capable of performing a wide variety of functions, and that these functions are determined by the structure of the mind. The third part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the development of the mind. It is shown that the mind develops from a simple state to a more complex state, and that this development is determined by the environment. The fourth part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the application of the theory of the structure of the human mind to the study of the human mind. It is shown that the theory can be used to explain a wide variety of phenomena, and that it can be used to predict the behavior of the human mind.

Reply to C-3965--Parrot, dated January 2, 1960

Douglas Library Notes, Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., vol. 6, No. 2, has item about the Parrot Papers which are deposited in that library. I quote from it:

"His brother, John (Parrot), who died about 1830, had settled in Fredericksburg (township), organized and taught the first school in the township, and brought up a family of three boys, John, James, and Jonathan."

The last will and testament of James Parrot (brother of John), dated 29 Dec., 1820, bequeaths lands to brother, John, and nephews, James and Jonathan Parrot. All lands so bequeathed was in Ernestown Township, Ontario.

Item in the Parrott Orderly Book (now in Public Archives, Ottawa, Ont.) indicate that John Parrott had a daughter, Mary, who married John Robertson. This marriage was performed 5 April, 1804, by Rev. John Baughorn, Anglican Clergyman at Bath, Ont.

Cemetery records at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Ernestown, Ont., supply the following

Jonathan Parrott died 18 May, 1831, aged 90 yrs. 3 months. His wife, Rachel Lockwood, died 2 Nov., 1829, aged 54 yrs. 1 month.
James Parrott, born 26 May, 1791; died 19 Sept. 1843. His wife, Elizabeth dau. of Zachariah Snider, was born in 1794 and died in 1865. They were married 27 May, 1816, by Rev. John Baughorn.
John, Jr., died 22 Oct., 1854, aged 54 yrs. 6 months. His wife, Elizabeth, died 20 Apr., 1854, aged 67 years 2 months. These two buried in Milton Cemetery, Ernestown Township.

A second daughter, Elizabeth, born 3 April, 1782; died 9 March, 1837, married Andrew Scott Esq.

This, as far as I know, makes up the family of John Parrott and Ruth Broadwell; i.e. sons, John, Jr., James, Jonathan, and daughters, Mary and Elizabeth. All of these children were in Ernestown Township. There are descendants, but I am unable to sort them out.

By the way, John Parrott died 13 Nov., 1831, aged 54 yrs. 4 months. Ruth died 4 Dec., 1835, aged 74 yrs. 4 months.

I will support the following correspondents:

Mrs. Shirley C. Wilder, 107 Beget St., Kingston, Ontario.
Mr. Verley Parrott, R. F. 1, Hapwood, Ont.
Mrs. Grace Parrott, R. F. 1, Odessa, Ont.
Mrs. Ida Parrott, R. F. 1, Kingston, Ont.

Some one of them may be able to give you further information.

For repayment to me, please send me all you know of the ancestry of these brothers, James and John Parrott.

Yours sincerely,

H. C. Burleigh.
